A call out for web developers

It'd be good to find a web developer interested in following this how to guide for setting up AmuseWiki software:

- <www.docs.anarchistlibraries.network/library/how-to-en>

Plus to be the main person that can be around to do a little site maintenance every now and again like be able to work out if a PDF with really big dimensions is messing up the website script.

There's a small one time payment the group Anarchist Federation of Cyber Communes (AF2C) can also offer as an incentive.

So, if anyone has the time and would be up for getting involved it'd be super appreciated. Our email address is:

- [radicallibraries \[at\] proton \[dot\] me](mailto:radicallibraries@proton.me)

Plus here's the AF2C matrix chat that it'd be good for people to join, so that the group can vet peeps before giving access codes to the server:

- <www.matrix.to/#/#af2c-public:4d2.org>

Marco from Anarchist Libraries Network also offered to help tutor anyone who'd like a hand navigating the server files by emailing or messaging the #amusewiki IRC:

- [hosting \[at\] anarchistorlibraries \[dot\] network](mailto:hosting@anarchistlibraries.network)
- <www.web.libera.chat/#amusewiki>

Finally, if you don't think you have the web development experience, but would like to donate towards someone else having the time to build the website, you can donate via the link below, and leave a comment such as 'for the radical libraries commune':
